Game board and 33 wooden marbles.

Object of the game

Jump over adjacent marbles and remove those that are jumped over. The aim is to end up with only one marble in the centre of the board.

Game preparations

Place the wooden marbles on the game board, but leave an empty hole in the centre of the board. (You can also position the marbles in some other pattern if you want.)

How to play

Each marble is allowed to jump over adjacent marbles, vertically or horizontally, to an empty hole on the other side of the marble. The marble that has been jumped over is removed from the board.

End of the game

The game ends when you can no longer jump over any marbles. You have finished the game successfully if there is only one marble left in the centre of the board.

Game variant

You can also play the game so that the object of the game is to try to remove as many marbles as you can from the board. This way you can take tournaments against other players.

BOX TEXT:

A wooden game classic for one player. Jump over adjacent marbles and remove those that are jumped over. The aim is to end up with only one marble in the centre of the board. The game board is also a storage box for the game parts!
